

Here Are Your Result!

Your moral decision-making style appears to lean towards Care and Sanctity.

In comparison to the average population, based on our sample statistics, you tend to emphasize the care dimensionality.

- Authority: You show a moderate inclination towards respecting authority and established norms, balancing the need for order and structure with a healthy skepticism towards unchecked authority.
- Care: Your moral decision-making style emphasizes empathy, compassion, and concern for the well-being of others. You prioritize the consideration of the impact of your actions on individuals and communities.
- Sanctity: You exhibit a moderate consideration for the sacred or transcendent aspects of life, valuing traditions and rituals that imbue certain actions or objects with moral significance.
- Fairness: Your approach to morality reflects a commitment to principles of justice, equality, and fairness. You strive to ensure equitable treatment and opportunities for all individuals, advocating for fairness in social, political, and economic contexts.
- Loyalty: You demonstrate a moderate inclination towards loyalty to groups, institutions, or individuals, valuing relationships and commitments while also recognizing the importance of individual autonomy and integrity.

The Impact of Others on Your Moral Decisions

Change

Stay Firm

You are open to new perspectives and possibly values social harmony or consensus.

You hold strong to your principles and show strength in maintaining your stance under social pressure.

If you enjoyed this study, there is more!

Let someone else glimpse into your result by sharing your encrypted profile link.

Consider learn more about daily moral decisions through searching and navigating Am I the Asshole (AITA) posts:

AITA posts exploration →

Components

Logo

Navigation Bar

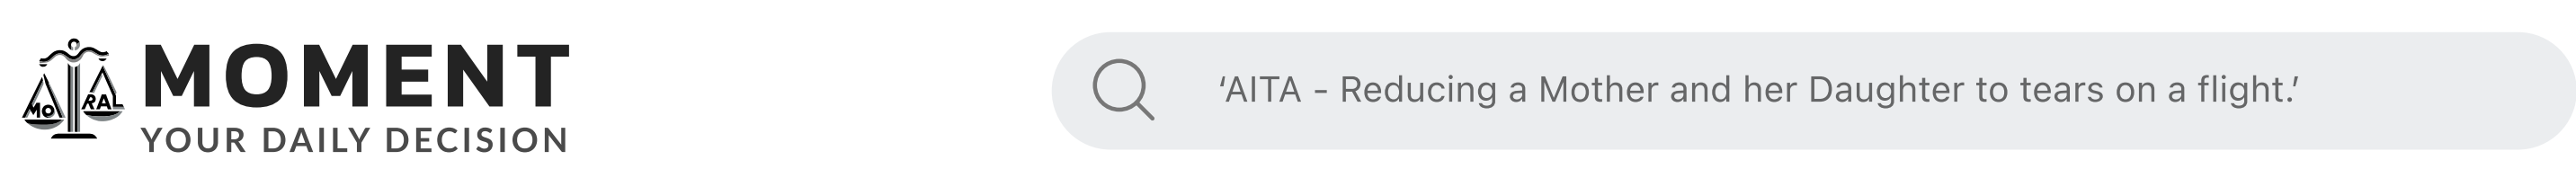

Normal

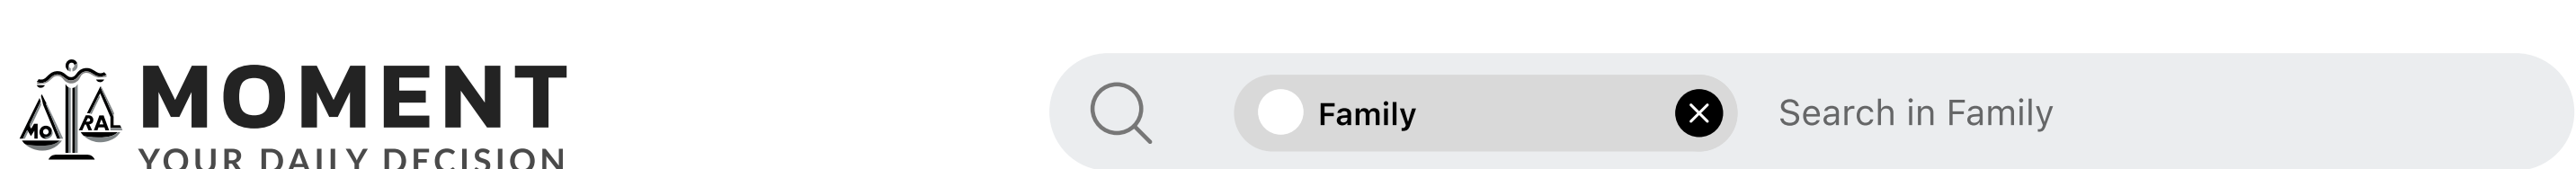

Normal without tab items

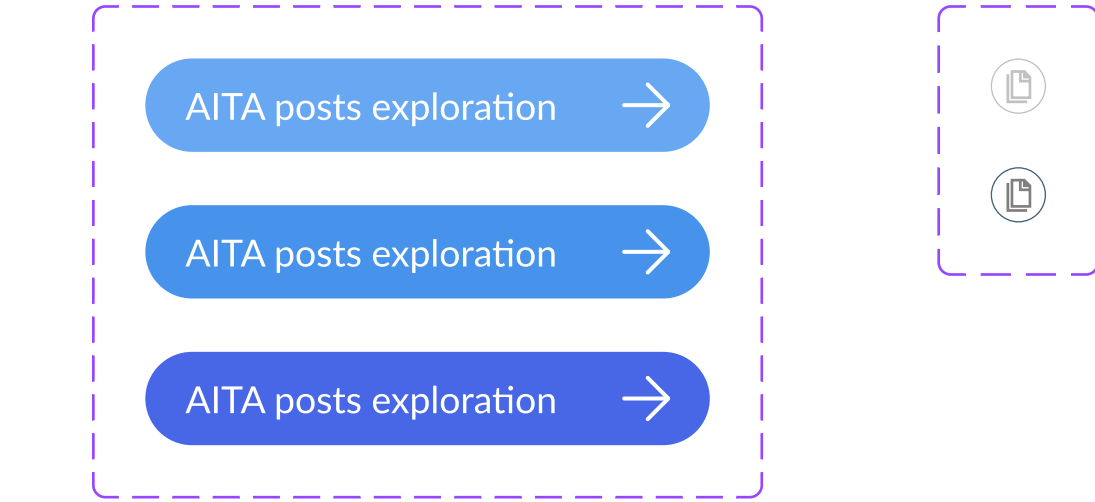

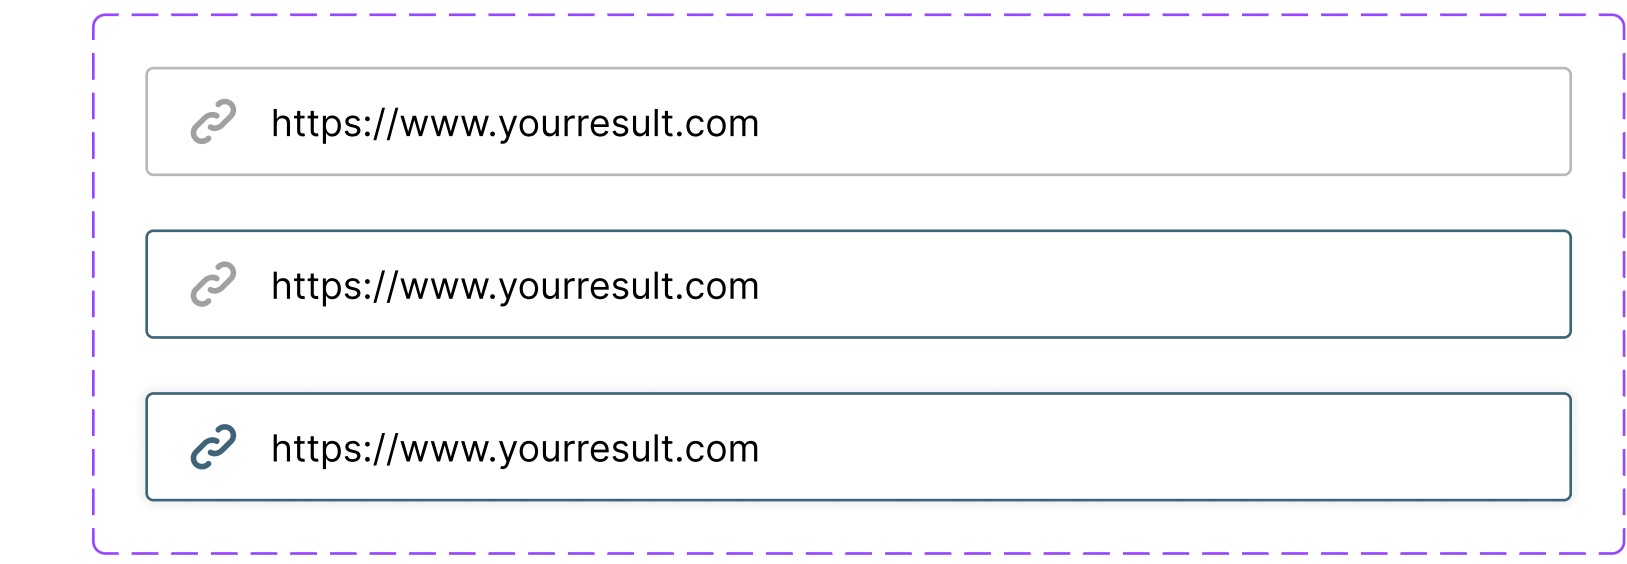

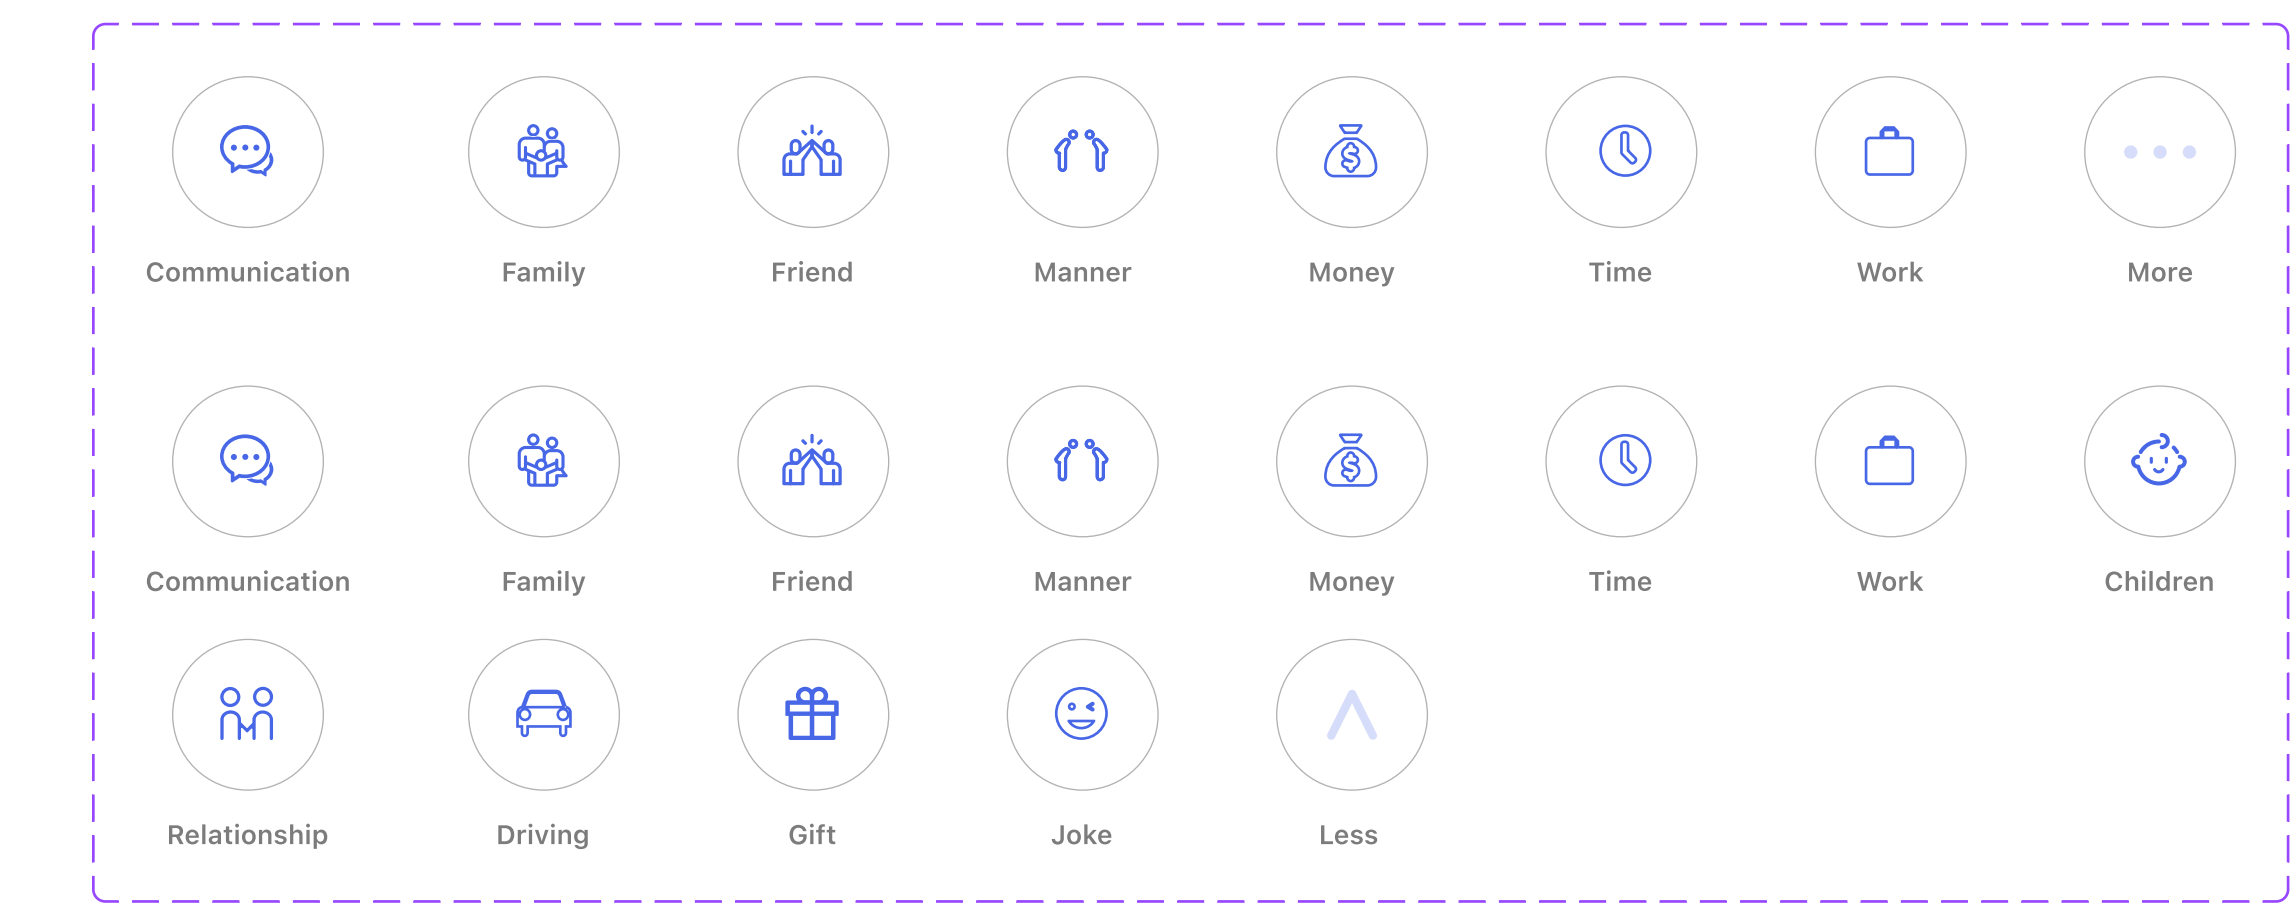

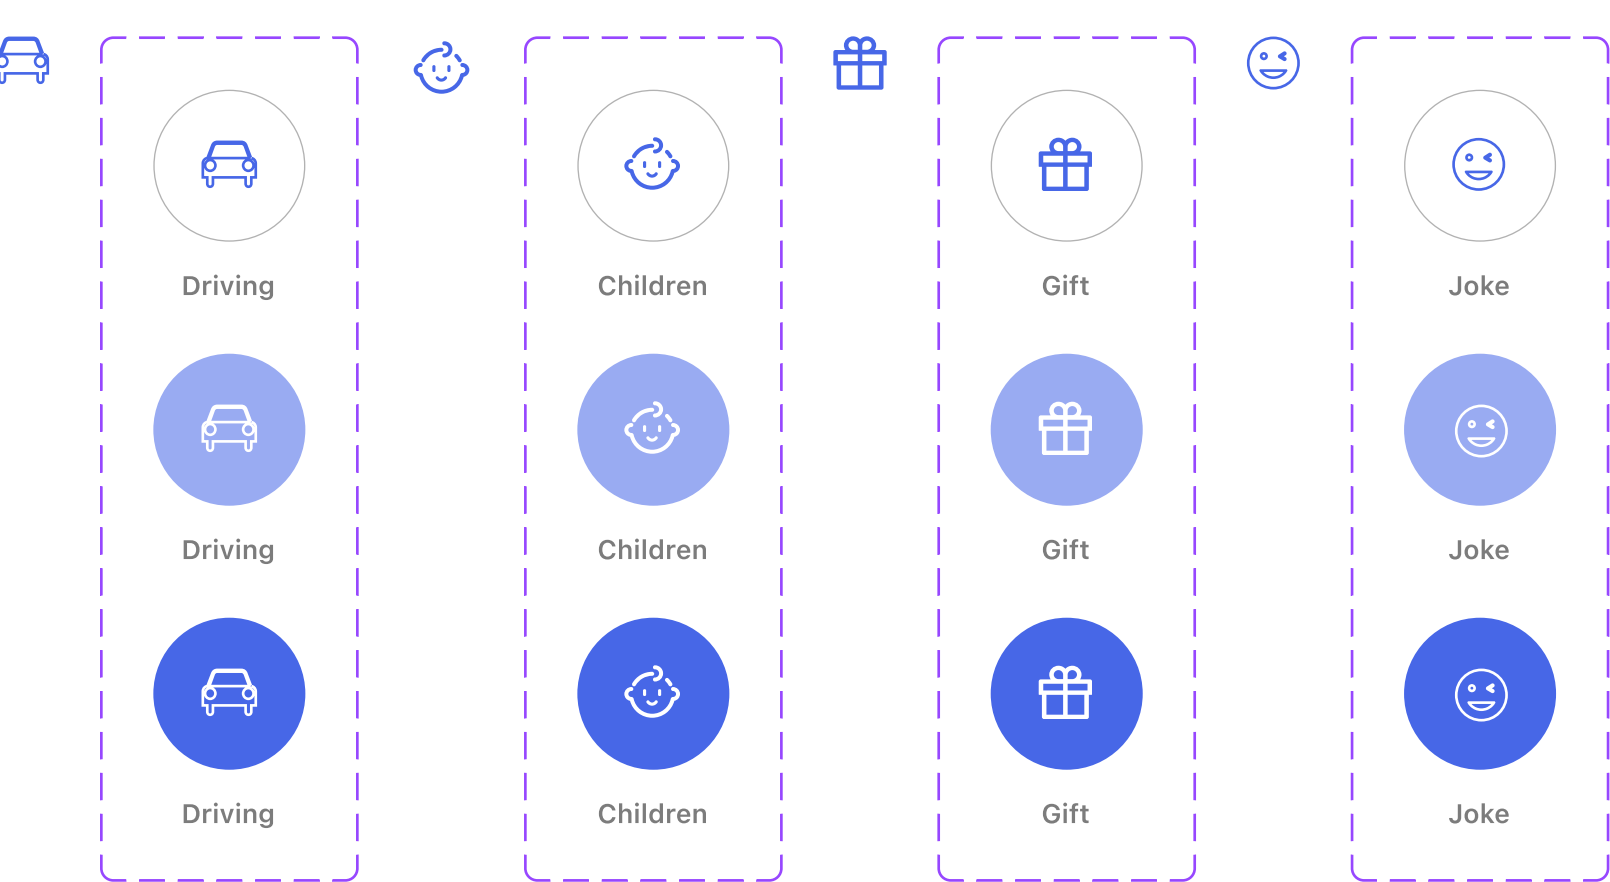

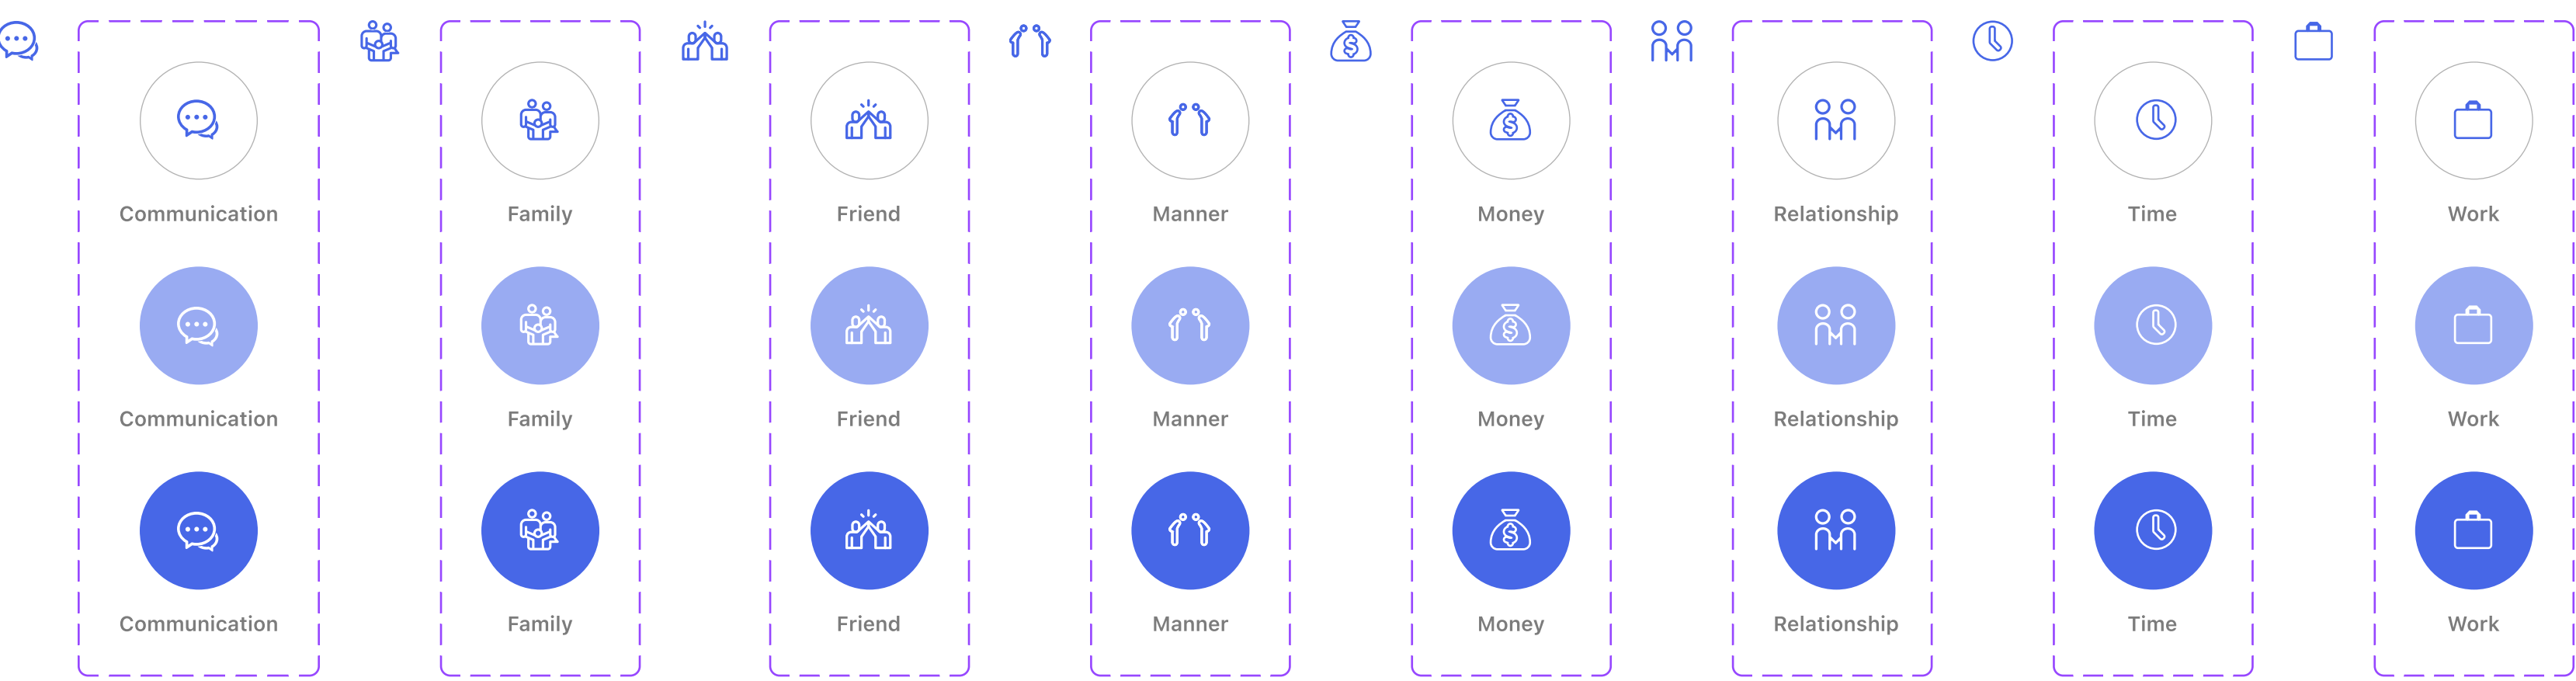

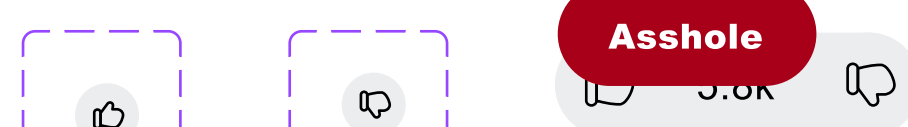

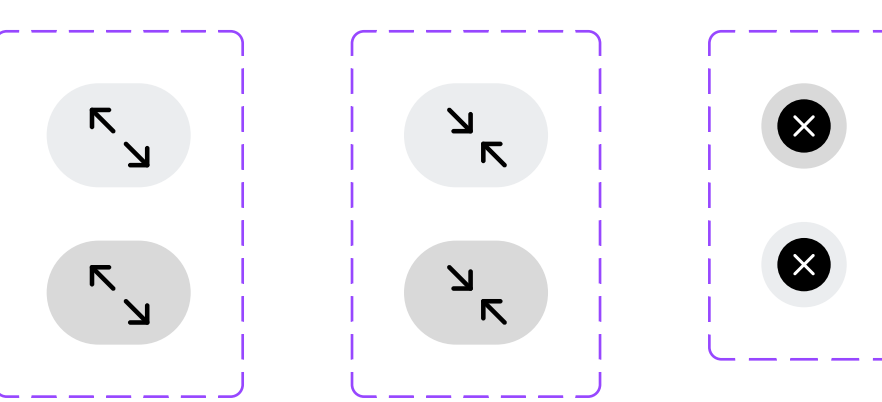

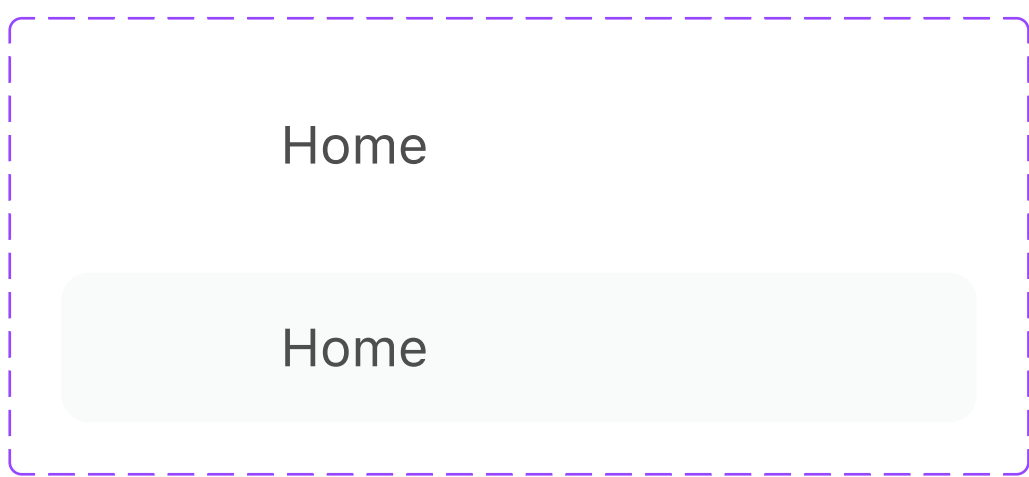

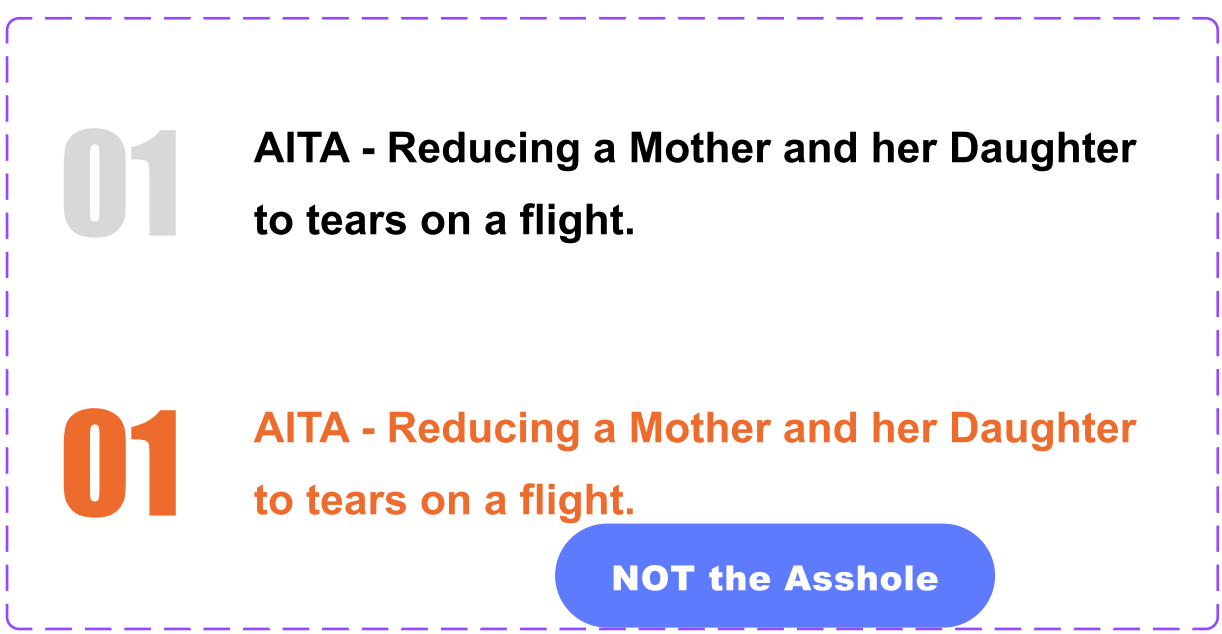

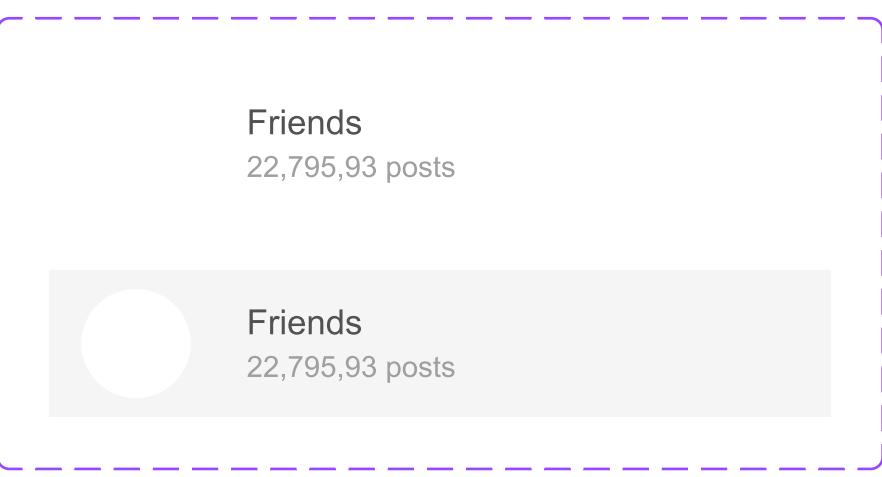

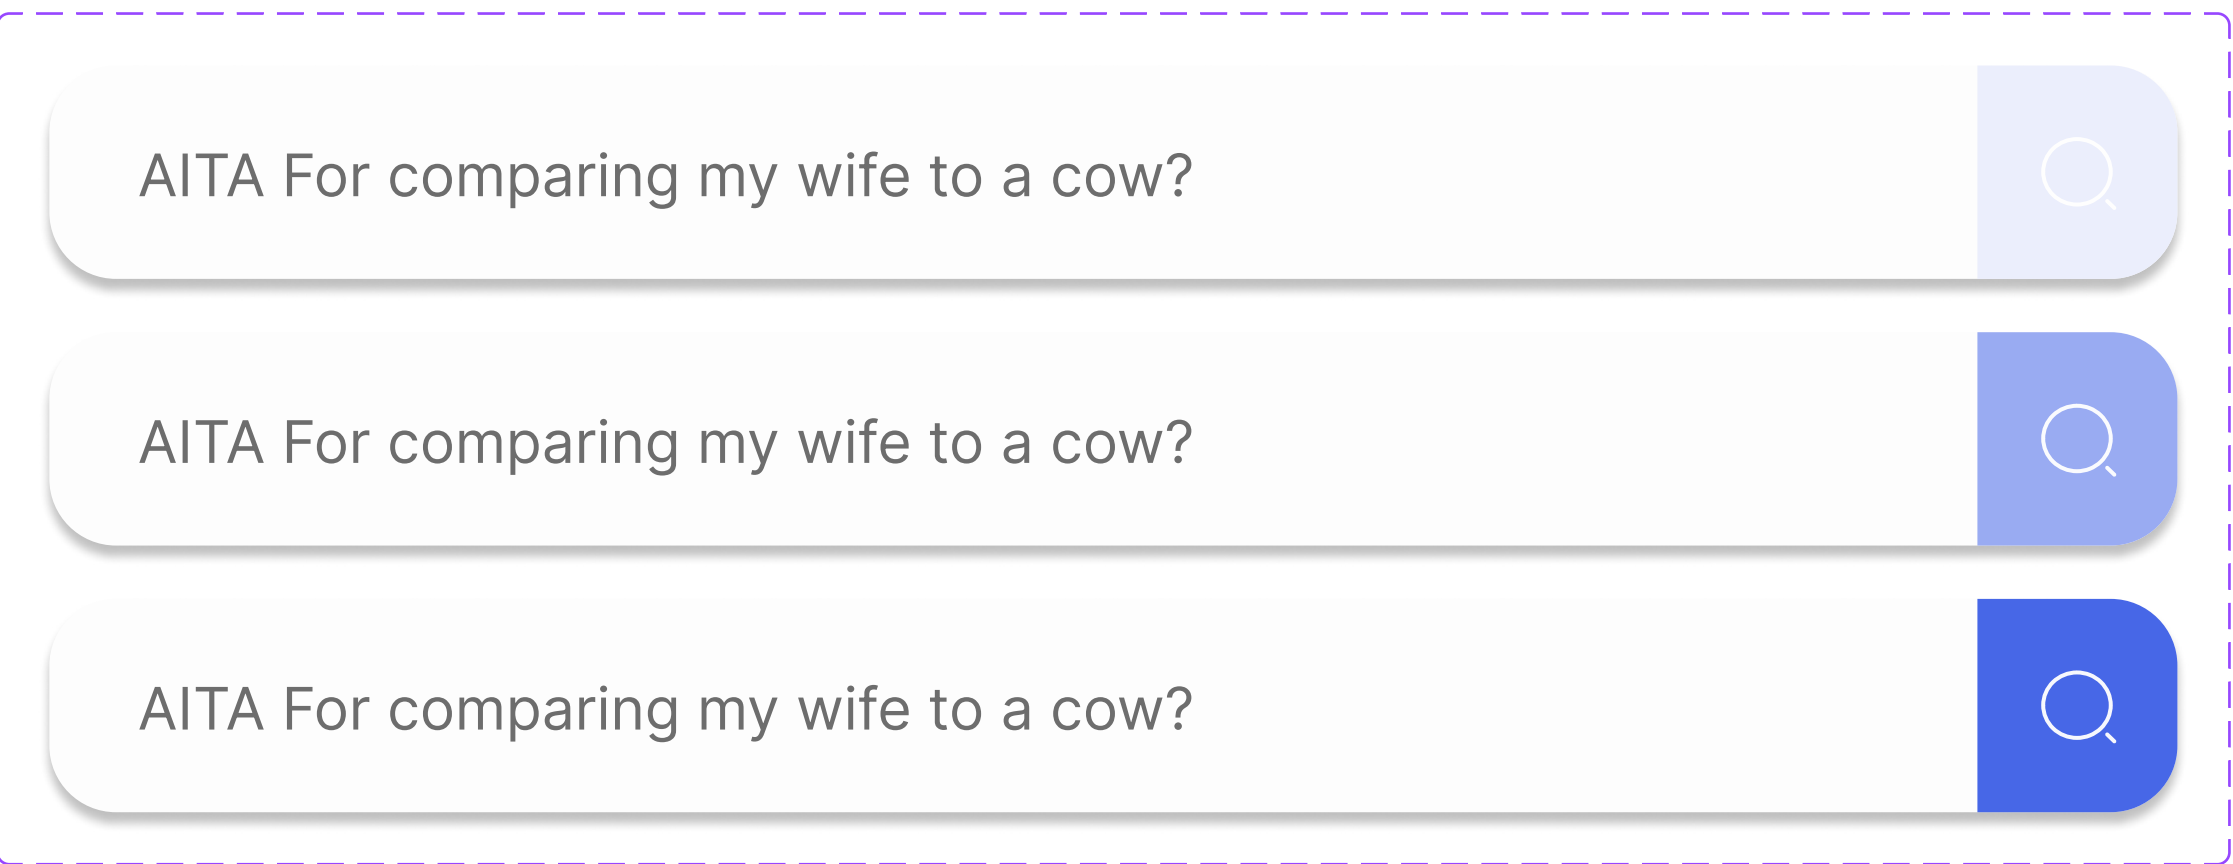

Search-Normal

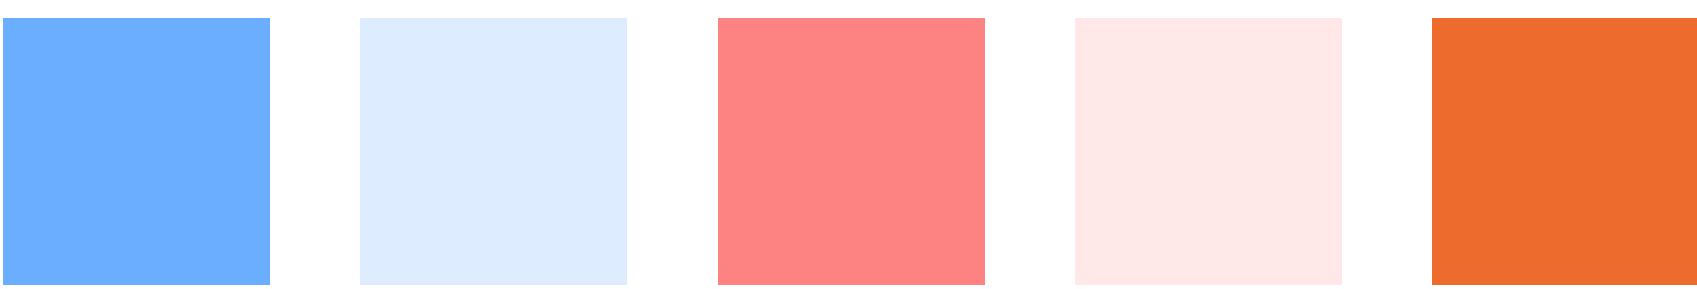

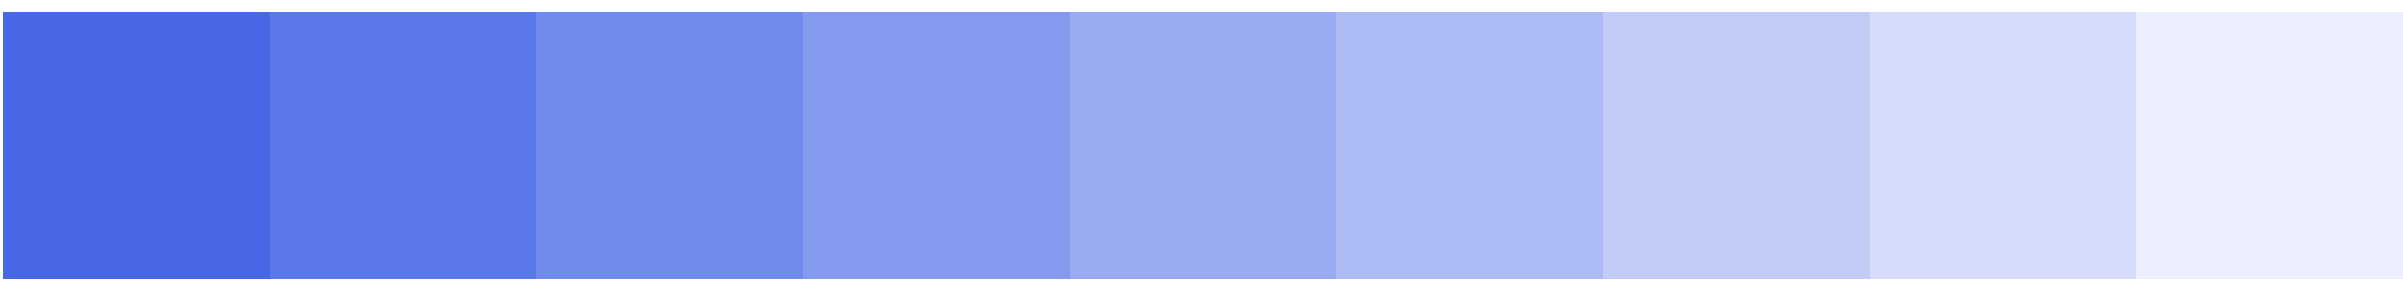

Search-in-Topic

Search Bar & Button and more

Colors

Background

